

HER FIRST IN TWENTY-FIVE YEARS. Loretta, a patriotic, parrot of Cambridge, Mass., celebrates Independence Day by laying an honest-to-goodness egg. Since Loretta has spent the twenty-five years of her life in a cage living the secluded life of a respectable Boston spinster, Harvard scientists are all agog over her egg-laying performance. A SWIMMING CHAMP IN PLASTER. Miss Marie Curtis, a pretty eighteen-year-old aquatic marvel from California, serves Los Angeles sculptors as a living model for the statue "The Swimming Champion," which is to be shown by the Chicago Art Exhibit. "Never again," gasped Marie when they had finally finished the mold and cracked away the plaster from the fatigued girl. Underwood

GRANDPA HYLAN ON THE JOB. A Sunday morning scene in the Bushwick section of Brooklyn showing Hylan giving his grandson, Master John Sinnott Jr., a joy ride in the latter's nifty rubber-tired go-cart. The youngster's parents together with Mrs. Hylan are vacationing abroad. Paul Thompson

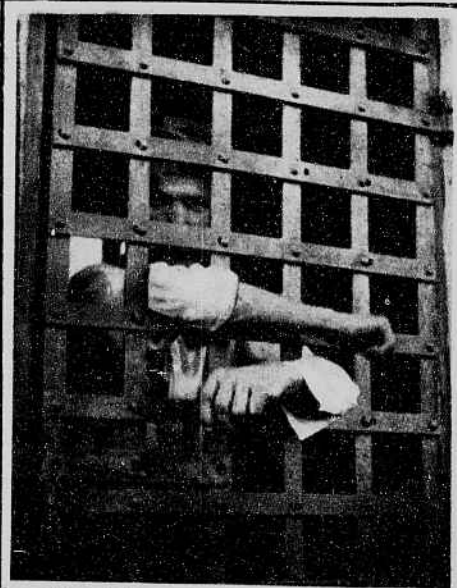

Right—CUPID AT THE BATH. Master John Henry Jr., small but scintillating cinema star of Sennett comedies, all set for his morning plunge in a la Hollywood bungalow. "Start your water," chirps Junior, "and let's get it over with. I'm due on the lot in twenty minutes, and besides, I had a bath yesterday." Kadel & Herbert

GILDA GRAY. A new pose by the shimmy queen showing her shoulder expert wearing her fetching radiana luminous costume in which she appears with a bevy of quivering coryphees in the "It's Getting Dark on Old Broadway" number from the current edition of the Ziegfeld Follies at the New Amsterdam Theater. THE S. S. COLUMBUS, largest ship to fly the German flag and eighth largest vessel in the world, recently launched at Danzig, for the North German Lloyd service. The new liner, which will visit New York for the first time next spring, is 750 feet long, of 43,000 tons and has accommodations for 2,800 passengers.

Right—JAILED. Bill Hawley, a railroad shopman of Clater, Mo., vacationing behind the bars as a result of a run-in with United States marshals guarding the Chicago & Alton shops, is of the conviction that Uncle Sam, when riled, is a bad man to fool with.
